Article 27 Deleted. <by Ordinance No. 4454, Oct. 1, 2007>

Article 28 (Quarrying Fees, etc.)

(1) In cases of land leased for quarrying under Article 26 (1), quarrying fees shall be collected, which shall be at least 50/1000 of the amount obtained by multiplying the permitted amount of quarrying by the market price of a cubic meter of the relevant rough stone during the year involved, in addition to rent.

(2) As used in paragraph (1), "market price of a rough stone" means the market price of the relevant rough stone at the time when it is removed from its place of origin and shall be determined on the basis of the size of that which is produced most.

(3) In cases of determination of the market price of a rough stone referred to in paragraph (2), a report on price appraisal shall be prepared as a material for the determination of the expected price.

(4) A report on price appraisal under paragraph (3) shall be accompanied by a written appraisal prepared by an appraisal institution, a report on market prices prepared by any other relevant professional organization, business organization or end user, and other reference documents relating to price appraisal.

(5) Notwithstanding paragraph (1), the Mayor may otherwise determine the rate of quarrying fees with respect to which he/she deems that it is necessary to collect 50/1000 or more thereof, taking into account the cost of production of stone, etc. according to category and use.

Article 29 (Standards for Calculation of Rent for Building)

(1) In calculating rent for a building, the appraised value thereof shall be determined by adding the appraised value of the building and that of the site therefor.

(2) The appraised value of a site referred to in paragraph (1) shall be determined on the basis of any land used exclusively by users of a building on the site, other than the floor space of that building: Provided, That when the calculation of the net area is impossible due to the obscurity of the boundaries, such appraised value shall be determined on the basis of the area of the site for a building obtained by calculating the present building coverage ratio under the Building Act in reverse.

(3) If part of any building is leased, the appraised value thereof shall be the amount obtained by adding the appraised value of the building and any of the following:

1. If any two-story building is leased:

(a) 2/3 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the first floor;

(b) 1/2 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the second floor;

2. If any three-story or higher building is leased:

(a) 1/2 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the first floor;

(b) 1/3 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the second floor;

(c) 1/4 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the third floor;

(d) 1/5 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the fourth floor or higher;

3. If any one-story building is leased, the total appraised value of the site therefor;

4. If the basement levels of any building are leased:

(a) 1/3 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the first basement;

(b) 1/4 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the second basement;

(c) 1/5 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the third basement or lower;

5. If the basement levels of any building without a ground floor are leased:

(a) 1/2 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the first basement;

(b) 1/3 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the second basement;

(c) 1/4 of the appraised value of the site for the said building, in cases of the third basement or lower.

(4) In determining the appraised value of a building and that of the site therefor referred to in paragraph (3), the leased area of the building and site shall be obtained by adding the area used exclusively by the lessee and that used jointly with other persons. In this case, the jointly-used area shall be calculated by the following formula or by applying 30 percent thereof:

the total area used jointly by the lessee and other persons (in the case of a building, the total area of any floor used jointly by the lessee and other persons) $\times$ (the area used exclusively by him/her $\div$ the total area used exclusively by other such persons (in the case of a building, the total area of any floor used exclusively by them)).

(5) If it is deemed that the calculation of the jointly-used area under paragraph (4) is quite unreasonable due to special circumstances of a leased building, such calculation may be made by applying other standards. In this case, any specified documentary evidence relating to matters deemed so unreasonable and the standards for such calculation shall be included in a report on the calculation of rent.

(6) If any knowledge industrial center built by the Seoul Metropolitan Government is leased, the appraised value thereof shall consist of the appraised value of the buildings thereof and that of a site proportionate to the area of each factory belonging to such apartment house-type factory. <Amended by Ordinance No. 5118, Jul. 28, 2011>

(7) The provisions of paragraphs (1) through (6) may apply mutatis mutandis to the calculation of rent for any land occupied by a private building for commercial use with two or more floors above ground or two or more floors below, and rent for any land occupied by a private building for residential use shall be calculated on the basis of the rate of the area obtained by dividing the total site area by the used area (including the jointly-used area).

Article 31 (Lease in Such Manner as to Pay Security Deposits)

(1) Public property which may be leased in such a manner as to pay security deposits under Article 31 (4) of the Decree shall be as follows:

1. Public property necessary for the promotion of utilization of a large public complex built for public good and profitability;
2. Public property necessary for the promotion of utilization of any other public property (limited to that in which there are buildings or other structures) created from the operation of any profit-making business.

(2) Public property may be leased in such a manner as to pay security deposits under paragraph (1), only if:

1. Such lease is more favorable to the Seoul Metropolitan Government than the receipt of use fees or rent in the utilization of the said public property;
2. Such lease is unavoidably necessary to compete with neighboring private facilities;
3. Where other reasons corresponding to standards referred to in subparagraphs 1 and 2 accrue.

(3) Security deposits under paragraphs (1) and (2) of this Article shall not be less than the amount obtained by making a calculation in reverse so that, at the time of making a one-year time deposit with the Seoul Treasury Bank, interest thereon may be equivalent to annual rent under Article 31 of the Decree.

(4) Security deposits collected under paragraph (3) of this Article shall be managed in cash other than the revenue and expenditure under Article 40 of the Enforcement Decree of the Local Finance Act, and such management shall be followed by referring to the practices of that of the guaranty money referred to in the Seoul Metropolitan Government Rule on Finance and Accounting: Provided, That interest on such security deposits shall be included in the revenue of the Seoul Metropolitan Government.

(5) If the lease period expires, or if lease is revoked or terminated in the middle thereof, security deposits shall be repaid.

(6) In repaying security deposits due to revocation or termination under paragraph (5), rent shall be settled as follows if such revocation or termination is attributable to the lessee (hereinafter referred to as the "lessee"):

1. If interest on security deposits at the time of such termination is less than the amount calculated on the basis of the maturity interest rate until the expected date of repayment of security deposits due to any change in the deposit interest rate by such termination, the difference shall be paid by the lessee;
2. The lessee shall pay the amount to be paid under subparagraph 1 to the treasury of the Seoul Metropolitan Government until the date of repayment of security deposits. In this case, security deposits from which the said amount is deducted may be repaid failing such payment.
